PORTSMOUTH SQUARE "TOT LOT"

Dedication Ceremonies for the Portsmouth Square "Tot Lot" at Kearny and Clay Streets were held Thursday, September 20th, 11:30 a.m. The festivities were sponsored by the San Francisco Recreation and Park Department, The Chinatown Coalition for Better Parks, and the San Francisco Art Commission.

Several innovations make this facility unique in design and function. The play apparatus was designed with input from the youngsters who will be using it. The "Tot Lot" also emphasizes the development of physical skills, as well as prominently displays key elements of the historically rich culture common to the residents of Portsmouth Square Community.

Artist Mary Fuller McChesney was contracted by the Art Commission to produce six animal sculptures to occupy the central area of the "Tot Lot". Each figure was chosen for it's compatibility with Chinese astrology. The figures, a tiger, rabbit, dragon, serpent, ram and monkey, symbolically add a cultural theme to the facility.

The Photography Center

50 Scott Street 558-4346

San Francisco is very fortunate to be the home of the most unique amateur photography facility in the entire country.

Would you believe a darkroom with forty enlargers, each with a private workspace? How about a portrait studio, washers for prints, print dryers, dry mounting presses, cutters and more? Well, it's true and it is located in the heart of San Francisco at 50 Scott Street.

The Photography Center is operated by the San Francisco Recreation and Park Department and has been in operation for nearly thirty years. The Center is unique in that it is run similar to most recreation programs. That is, there are experienced directors to aid any member who has questions or problems related to photography. There are also numerous classes designed for all skill levels from novice to advanced.

Probably the most surprising aspect of the Photograpy Center is the cost. Being operated like any recreation program, cost is kept at a bare minimum, to allow as many people as possible the opportunity to utilize this facility.

The Photography Center offers one of San francisco's most innovative programs for the residents of the City. If you are an amateur photographer or have an interest in learning more about photography, contact the San Francisco Recreation and Park Department (558-4268) or call the Photography Center, at (558-4346).

world to the public in a fabulous setting.

San Francisco Landscape Garden Show con't

Purpose: It

It also serves as a catalyst within garden professionals. Proceeds from the show will benefit San Francisco's parks and playgrounds.

Background:

In 1986, over 20,000 people attended the first Landscape Garden Show. Ranging in age from 7 days to 94 years, and varying backgrounds, our visitors reflected the broad-based interest in gardening in Northern California. Generous public support and private contributions subsidized the cost of admission, keeping the entrance fee affordable to many. Because of our first year's success, $50,000 of improvements are underway in Golden Gate Park - trees planted for reforestation, key additions to the Nursery's plant stock and to the Rose Garden.

Show Garden:

A special tribute to John McLaren celebrates the 100th anniversary of the start of his successful direction of Golden Gate Park. A rocky cascade interplanted with rhododendrons pays homage to this world-famous horticulturist who spent 56 years developing Northern California's #1 public garden, Golden Gate Park.

Exhibits:

35 gardens illustrate exemplary design and landscape uses of plants. They acquaint visitors with available garden materials and services.

Educational exhibits by horticultural organizations and commercial growers and suppliers offer displays of their activities. Exhibits include a Tabletop Garden Competition and a Container Garden Competition.

Children's miniature gardens, the result of a citywide competition for classrooms in grades 3-6, introduce the young to garden-making. Free guided tours, educational materials for classroom use, seeds and seedlings are offered to participating schools.

Retail Section:

A small, selective Garden Marketplace offers the best of retail garden supplies and accessories.
